

Onco UroVar is GAINING TRACTION IN TOULON

It is now the Toulon congress center that hosts the Onco UroVar congress organized by doctors Olivier Alenda, urologist, and Jean-François Berdah, oncologist. The eighth edition took place last weekend. "250 participants, urologists, oncologists, radiologists, radiotherapists, nuclear doctors and pathologists, hospital, liberal or military practitioners attend scientific presentations on urological cancers (bladder, kidney, prostate), with speakers of high quality, recognized nationally or internationally such as Professors Karim Fizazi and Morgan Rouprêt, indicated Olivier Alenda during the first day. The debates focus on topics for the future, allow us to coordinate care in the region and strengthen the ties between us. Including this year with general practitioners and nurses invited to training days on the latest advances in urology. »

"There is no congress without

announcement of major advances in surgery, diagnostics, treatments or technological innovations, welcomes the Dr. Berdah. We receive more and more experts to allow the specialists of the region but also the interns, and ultimately the patients, to benefit from the progress that is taking shape in real time. »

CM

> Prof. Karim Fizazi is an oncologist at Gustave Roussy in Paris and professor of oncology at the University of Paris-Saclay. The P. Morgan Rouprêt is a urological surgeon, professor of urology at the Sorbonne University.

Doctors Jean-François Berdah and Olivier Alenda organize the Onco UroVar congress. (Photo CR)